- KIMBERLY

Hello! My name is Kimberly, and I work in an elections office. I work in an environment with over 100 coworkers during election times, and I interact with numerous voters each day. Before the vaccine became available to the general population, four members in my family passed away. When I became eligible to receive it, I knew I had to take it. I work so closely with my coworkers and the community. I knew it was a duty of mine to protect them and be an example to others around me.

I chose to get vaccinated because I felt it was my responsibility to keep myself, my coworkers, my family, and the community safe so that hopefully one day we can go back to a closer normality.
